Founded in Sonoma County, California, FlashCo has grown to be one of the largest manufacturers of roof flashings and accessories in North America with seven plant locations in the U.S. For over 20 years, FlashCo has been a trusted source for dependable pre-fabricated accessories for the immediate needs of roofing contractors, distributors, and industry-leading roofing material manufacturers.

Customer Challenges

- They did not have a way to capture what was being done on the production floor in a real-time manner across multiple sites in the US.
- They were not able to communicate accurate information to the customers.
- Lost productivity from their office staff while adding costs for changes that customers wanted to make for things started or already in process.

Solution

- Tools for visibility and transparency they sought to improve their supply chain.
- Capture data that was not previously caught per job. They are now able to use this data to drive process improvements on the floor.

Results

- Greater than a 20% productivity improvement from the floor.
- Ability to deploy on tablets.
- Filtering options based on resources.
- Including text in their BOM's which are displayed for the operator.
